BARBECUE COMIN' UP — Georgetown Volunteer Firemen Junior Doerfler, Bill Edmiston, and Jean Longino check the pits in preparation for the Fire Dept.'s annual Family Barbecue to be held Saturday night. Barbecue will be served from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the San Gabriel Park Community Building, with a dance afterward.

Firemen schedule Saturday barbecue

Barbecued beef with all the trimmings will be featured Saturday night, August 23 at the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Dept.'s 15th annual Family Barbecue in San Gabriel Park.

Tickets for the event, $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for children under ten, will be available at the door, from volunteer firemen, and at State Farm Insurance in Georgetown.

Barbecue will be served from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Community Building in the park, and plates to go will be available.

A dance will follow the barbecue, with tickets $3.00 per couple, $2.00 for singles.

By Don Scarbrough

The only noticeable effect to Georgetown citizens will be a bumpier ride, when and if the federal government ends revenue sharing with cities. City Manager Leo Wood told me Friday.

THE ONLY USE Georgetown has made of revenue sharing has been on our city streets, which have showed marked improvement since the program's inception. Loss of the bonus $50,000 annually would probably mean that less money could be spent on the streets and some of the pot-holes would be deeper and survive longer before being filled, Wood indicated.

Congress will shortly decide whether to extend the program and citizens are being alerted on a nation-wide basis that its demise could mean a sharp increase in city taxes. "I see no danger of this in Georgetown," Wood told me. "Our city operated with a surplus in fiscal year 1973-74 and figures to be released at the end of this month will probably show we had another surplus for fiscal year 1974-75. By paring down just slightly on expenditures we should be able to make it without asking for more tax money for some time to come."

Federal revenue sharing will end December 31, 1976 unless Congress approves an extension bill, which it probably will. City taxes may be the only thing that don't go up next year.

ABOUT 20 YEARS AGO a tornado dipped down on Italy and destroyed a sizeable hunk of that small community located south of Dallas. Aid to the stricken town was immediately offered and the incumbent congressman wired that federal funds to help out were being arranged for in Washington. Russell Bryant, then editor of the News-Herald at Italy, wired back: "Keep your money. Italy is still in better shape than Washington." The reply made Italy and Bryant a national sensation.

Russell once staged a fix-up, paint-up campaign for "down-town" Italy and got the governor of Texas, either Jester or Shivers, to don overalls and apply the first brush of paint.

He was an editor about 50 years but in 1968 sold his paper. Looking around for something to keep him busy, he bought a beauty parlor. For the next several years he attended Texas Press Association meetings and gleefully told us the advantages of running one of those businesses. "I deal with a much better looking clientele and these ladies cheerfully and promptly pay their bills," he chortled.

Russell went on to his reward a couple of weeks ago. I'll miss him at our meetings. He was a rather remarkable fellow.

Community Development input system due Sept. 8

Community Development Coordinator Tom Sams will soon present a scheme to stimulate public comment on the city's plans for use of $228,000 in Community Development funds to the Georgetown City Council.

Labels are required

Druggists' labels identifying medication, the prescribing doctor, and the prescribed dosage must be attached to all medicine containers, regardless of how innocent the contents may be, warns Mrs. Kenneth McCalla of Rt. 3.

Her son Clay found that out when he was charged by Austin police with driving under the influence of drugs last week because a medication container he was carrying had no prescription label.

According to Mrs. McCalla, 17-year-old Clay was enroute to Austin to visit his grandmother when Austin officers stopped him and searched his car.

The police found the container with three pills in Clay's glove compartment, said Mrs. McCalla, and promptly carted him away to jail.

The officers may have been somewhat abashed when Mrs. McCalla successfully identified the container's contents as Sumycin, a medication prescribed for Clay by an Austin doctor, and not illegal drugs.

But the law is the law, and no prescription label is a no-no.

"I think it's important for people to know they must have prescription labels on all containers," said Mrs. McCalla on Friday.

The plan, which will probably recommend setting the first of at least two public hearings on Community Development projects before the Citizens Advisory Commission, will be delivered to the Council at its regular meeting September 8, together with a resolution proposing adoption.

The city wants to use $228,000 due this year from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to improve storm drainage in three areas, construct a permanent Neighborhood Center in the Urban Renewal district, and buy two sections of blighted land to convert for public use.

Those proposals were unveiled at a public hearing before the Council on July 29.

Another hearing is set for January 12, 1976, and any number of others may be held during the next four and a half months.

The Citizens Advisory Commission, a committee of 23 Georgetown residents headed by C. A. Forbes of 1501 E 16th, will be the main forum for public input to the city's planning for use of the funds.

Under the federal Community Development and Housing Assistance Act of 1974, Georgetown won a $912,000 grant last March to fund urgently-needed public works and projects similar to Urban Renewal.

The city is scheduled to receive $228,000 each fiscal year from 1975-77, $152,000 in 1978, and $76,000 in 1979.

Last year the money was earmarked to help construct a water intake structure on the site of the future North Fork Lake as part of the city's effort to insure a plentiful water supply, which city fathers deemed Georgetown's most pressing need.

Projects proposed for this year would cost an estimated $286,549, leaving the city $58,549 short after all Community Development funds are used.

Proposals include drainage projects for the San Jose, Ash, and West 14th street areas.

The San Jose project, cost $71,700, would involve reshaping the Smith's Branch stream beds, building up the stream's banks, and rearranging culverts in the area to drain storm runoff into Smith's Branch.

The city wants to continue its Ash street drainage program, at a cost of $86,849.

A third project along West 14th would require reshaping storm sewers to drain into the South San Gabriel at a cost of $18,000.

Sams said architect Tim Hansen of Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities Inc., the local community action agency, is still designing a proposed permanent Neighborhood Center to replace the temporary facility.

The Center would be constructed, for about $25,000, in a park off Scenic Drive in the Urban Renewal area.

Real estate being eyed by the city for purchase with Community Development funds includes two tracts designated the Old Gin and Old Oil Mill properties.

The Old Gin acreage consists of nearly a city block located between Timber, West, Ninth, and Tenth streets.

Almost two city blocks between Candee, Leander, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth make up the Old Oil Mill lot.

The city proposes to buy those tracts for $85,000 and develop them for public use.

Schools raise lunch prices

Price of lunches in Georgetown school cafeterias will be five cents higher than it was last year.

Milton Denham, school administrator, said that prices are still comparatively lower than other school districts in the area. He also told school board members Monday night, as he made the recommendation for the increase that after the cafeteria operations get underway, the prices can be lowered, if the district finds they can afford it.

During the past school year, the cafeterias collected $71,994 from lunches served. State reimbursements for meals were $72,859 bringing the total amount of revenues to $144,853.

Disbursements for the year were $141,798.

Prices set by the school board are:

• K-2	50 cents
• 3 - 8	55 cents
• 9 - 12	65 cents
• Teacher	85 cents.

Week's news in a nutshell

GEORGETOWN CITY OFFICIALS say electricity rates will probably rise again next month.

Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) intends to nearly double its fuel adjustment charge to the city in September, which means the Council will probably add more than 60 percent of the base rate charged local customers onto bills sent out in October.

"We just want to warn customers to watch their consumption," said City Manager Leo Wood.

BROTHERS FERNANDO AND LEONEL ORTIZ have been indicted on three counts each of attempted capital murder by the 26th District Court grand jury.

The men were arrested July 16 and charged with the attempted murder of two state narcotics agents and a third man with the agents after an alleged drug bust at a roadside park near Florence fell through.

Bond was set at $75,000 for each.

The grand jury also indicted 16 other persons.

THREE SCHOOL BOARDS in Williamson County adopted their 1975-76 budgets during the past week. One of the boards raised property taxes, and a fourth one, which has not adopted its budget, set a $5.6 million bond election.

A $2.58 million budget was approved and adopted Monday night by Georgetown trustees, who also continued the local tax rate of $1.82 per $100 assessed value.

Surplus funds totaling $243,395 were left over from the 1974-75 budget after amendment.

FLORENCE SCHOOL DISTRICT raised property taxes 25¢, Monday, to cover an expected $23,585 budget deficit for the coming school year.

Florence trustees set the maintenance tax at $1.32 per $100 assessed value and the sinking fund tax at 48¢ in adopting Supt. Lee Roy Knauth's $438,839 budget proposal.

LEANDER SCHOOL TRUSTEES, at their Thursday meeting, formally set September 20 as the date for a $5.6 million bond election.

Ten major repair and construction projects would be financed by the bonds, if passed, including: a new senior high school, a new high school football and track stadium, and additions to the Leander elementary, junior, and senior high schools.

Included on the Sept. 20 ballot will be a second proposition to allow the school board to set the maximum allowable maintenance tax of $1.50 per $100 assessed value.

Board member Bob Luce cast the only vote against the election, saying, "I didn't feel the timing is right."

Reappraisal stuns Leander

Garey flays land valuation

Property revaluations recently calculated for the Leander Independent School District have "sent some people to bed sick," says attorney Jack Garey, a property owner in the district.

Garey appeared before the Leander school board Thursday night as spokesman for a group of property owners protesting the new appraisal, which he says raised the overall valuation of the district more than four times, from $47 million to $187 million.

The land owners have scheduled an open meeting in the Leander High School cafeteria at 8 p. m. Monday (August 25) to discuss the notices of revaluation they received last week, and to consider possible responses to the appraisal, the district's first since 1968.

Garey spoke to the trustees informally after they set a $5.6 million bond election for school improvements for Sept. 20 during a special meeting.

"I'm here to say you have a tremendous problem with this appraisal," Garey told the board.

He said, "I've talked to people who simply won't be able to pay these taxes, and it has literally sent some of them to bed sick."

No tax assessment ratio has been set on the market value of the district, which Garey claims hiked some individual valuations 10 to 25 times.

But neither lower assessments, lower tax rates, nor a combination, continued Garey, will offset the increased valuation.

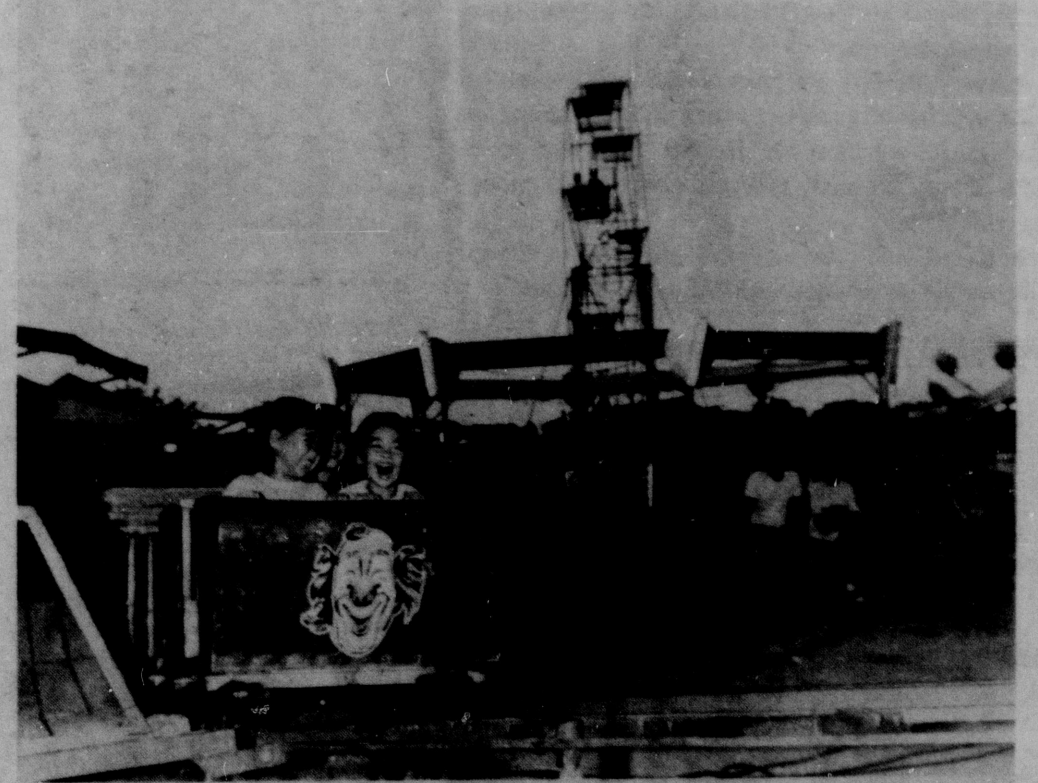

Citing the example of a neighbor whose property valuations he said increased from $6,000 to $90,000 under the new appraisal, Garey said, "I have played around with these figures, and you just can't set rates or ratios people can live with under a 1500 percent increase in valuation."

Garey contended the "market data" approach used by Professional Appraisal Company of Arlington in its nine-month revaluation of the Leander district was based on obsolete information.

"This is a dead market," said Garey, assailing the market data system, which is based on land sales. He explained that land sales in the

Not just leftwingers

Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the mammoth First Baptist Church of Dallas, recently sermonized on detente, American-Russia style, and, according to the Dallas Morning News, "he took it apart, joint by joint and barbecued it. The odor still lingers."

Continuing, the editorial quoted: "The Soviet Union is like the Assyrian empire of the Biblical times—ruthless, merciless, cruel. Why then are we appeasing it? The reason lies in the left-wingers... who are eager to support a government that more and more regiments the people and grasps the reins of industry."

DR CRISWELL RAISED the supremely pertinent point: "What are we getting out of detente? The Kremlin promises to give its people a few basic human rights, like receiving foreign visitors. In return, the American president declines to invite Alexander Solzhenitsyn to the White House 'because we are afraid of offending Russia.'"

The SUN has expressed similar thoughts for years, but won't agree that only the "left-wingers" support detente with the Russians.

Our wheat and grain farmers, for instance, sure aren't left-leaners, but most of them support a program that supplies a market for their produce.

Many of our manufacturers, including IBM, ITT, and other such giants, want to do business with the Soviets and favor a political condition that makes such trade possible.

Frankly, the SUN feels our trade with the Russians perpetuates and bolsters a cruel regime that might well fall on its face if we didn't help out every time it gets in trouble.

WE ASSUME THAT our country is getting paid for all the stuff we sent to the Russians, however, and it might well be that the overall effect benefits this country more than it does Russia. At least, fat Russians enjoying breads made from American wheat aren't as dangerous as lean, hungry Russians looking for new farmlands to conquer.

At best, the subject of detente is mighty tricky and hard to judge. The thought of doing business with an outfit that has sworn to "bury" us isn't appetizing but the idea of turning down good business and seeing grain prices drop to $1.00 a bushel isn't good, either.

Panel on beauty

It has been suggested to us that the City of Georgetown appoint a "Good Taste Committee" to help it with decisions that affect the beauty of the community.

IT ISN'T A BAD SUGGESTION, either. Our City Dads are intelligent men and some might have extra perception in "All Things Bright and Beautiful," but, on the other hand, they have a multitude of decisions to make that give them precious little time to consider the esthetic.

There are probably a dozen or so people in this exceptional community who are well qualified to judge and create the beautiful. The late Bob Lancaster was one of these and his contribution to the city was outstanding and enduring.

We believe our City Fathers would find it useful if they had a panel of experts to turn to when they face decisions that enhance or detract from the community's beauty. At least, it would give them a chance to pass the buck!

Think it over. If you like the idea, contact your favorite mayor or councilman. And tell him so.

Washington Report

Congressman J.J. Pickle

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Few creatures on earth call to mind more stories and evoke more wanderings of the imagination than the great whales. Now the countries of the world are engaged in a great debate on whether the whale should be allowed to survive or whether Japan, Russia, and others should be allowed to fish them into extinction.

Moral and philosophical arguments that man should not be responsible for the extinction of any species seem to carry a special weight where these giants of the deep are concerned. But the effort to save the whale has more than sentimental significance.

While we do not know of any bad effects which would occur in the balance of nature if the whale were to disappear, it is more accurate to say that we do not know much in this field at all. Because we cannot document any such effects yet does not mean they would not crop up.

Compelling evidence indicates that these dinosaurs of the deep may be more a key to the future than they are a link with the past. If the future of the earth lies anywhere, it lies in our oceans. Yet we know more about the surface of the moon than we do about the waters covering two-thirds of the world. Whales are helping to break old barriers in oceanic research. From them we are learning how air-breathing animals can dive to great depths below the ocean's surface. Recently we have learned that whales have an extremely highly developed communication system covering vast areas of the oceans. Studying this can improve our own communications both under and above water.

And in the last few years we have come to realize that whales are highly intelligent creatures, possibly more intelligent than the higher primates like chimps. If this is so, then the whales, big and small, are man's closest companions in the earth's scheme of life.

At a recent meeting in London, England, the International Whaling Commission made significant steps toward saving the whale. Specifically, for the first time all the whales will be covered by an agreed-to fishing quota management program.

Meany's grain boycott

The boycott of grain shipments to the Soviet Union, as instituted by the AFL-CIO's maritime unions, is not a solution to the problems it addresses chiefly the threat of added inflation as a result of this measurable drain on the United States food supply.

But it does force public attention to certain important questions, and presumably will induce government response, either in the form of a fresh policy statement or new regulatory procedure.

A boycott should not be allowed to be the controlling influence on exports over a period of time. As a short-term publicity device, however, the boycott announced by George Meany, AFL-CIO president, effectively raises a key question: whether the federal government should be consulted before private grain sales abroad are finalized.

There is much to be said for this viewpoint that transactions so significantly affecting the supply and price of foods in the United States should at least come under government scrutiny in time for some publicity and debate. It is preferable to a procedure that would leave the government only the avenue of contract annulments or other drastic action.

Mr. Meany's preference for sales directly between governments, rather than by private grain interests to the Soviet Union, is not easy to figure out. There is little reason to think that this formality would make a great deal of difference in end results.

But the main thrust of the boycott, and Mr. Meany's rhetoric in support of it, is a demand for clearly stated government policy "that will protect the American consumer and also the American shipping interests." He deplores the "open door to the private grain markets" that will "cost the American consumers billions of dollars."

The implications of such language are that the government is unmindful of the impact of huge grain sales, has not been alert to economic effects of its mainly hands-off policy

where transactions with the Soviet Union are concerned. But the fact is that President Ford has already acted to call a temporary halt to such grain sales. And past decisions to permit huge sales abroad have been the result of weighing their usefulness in furthering detente and strengthening the dollar on foreign exchange markets.

Although to Mr. Meany and many others the extra inflation brought about by earlier grain sales is a simple cause-and-effect matter, such a view fails to take account of the complexity of foreign relations and indeed of the national economy, where a great many factors are operating to affect prices.

Of all Mr. Meany's demands, the one that is easiest to support is the insistence that United States shipping lines be guaranteed a certain share in the grain-export business generated by such large deals. This has been done in the past, and it should be done again.

Ford Risking All
On Business Program

WASHINGTON — President Ford has told subordinates that his chances of winning the 1976 election will depend upon the economy. He has asked them to give top priority to stimulating the economy.

The President believes the best way to do this is to hold down government spending and to encourage business investments. He intends to offer more incentives, therefore, to stimulate business.

He also swore to subordinates that he will continue to veto the big-spending bills that come out of Congress. This kind of spending, he believes, will only steepen inflation and drive up prices.

There is one curious exception to the President's policy. He not only doesn't mind high oil prices, but he would like to seem them go higher.

He has told subordinates earnestly that it will take high prices to compel Americans to cut back their oil consumption. This is essential, he said, to make the U.S. less dependent upon Arab oil. Thus, he is pushing ahead with plans to "de-control" the price of domestic oil.

While the oil companies rake in the money, meanwhile, the average American will see his wallet grow even thinner.

This is the assessment of a confidential House study which predicts that President Ford's de-control scheme will cost consumers an additional $16 billion a year in inflation and lost production.

Overall, the study forecasts, consumer prices will climb as much as two per cent. Auto sales will fall off by about 10 per cent, says the study, and some 400,000 to 800,000 additional people will be added to the unemployment rolls.

In short, President Ford may be right that his re-election chances depend upon the economy. If so, the House study indicates there is some stormy political weather ahead for the President.

No Reprisals: Before the fall of Saigon, we quoted intelligence warnings that the communists would direct a bloodbath in South Vietnam. It is only fair that we now report that the postwar intelligence reports contain no evidence at all of a bloodbath.

In some villages, hated village officials were killed apparently by their own neighbors. A few secret police officials were also accused of tortures and were condemned to death by "People's Courts."

But there have been no mass reprisals — at least not so far — against officials of the former South Vietnamese regime. The worst that has happened to them has been enforced "re-education" in communist principles.

The latest intelligence reports, meanwhile, contain ominous new warnings. There is evidence that communist insurgents are getting captured American weapons from the Vietnamese for use in Thailand and Malaysia.

The intelligence reports warn that the communists are preparing for a major guerrilla offensive in both countries. This could turn Thailand and Malaysia into another Vietnam by 1977, according to the reports. We'll have to wait, of course, to find out whether these reports are accurate.

CIA Report: The Senate intelligence committee will issue its preliminary findings next month on the CIA assassination plots against foreign rulers.

Sources who are helping to draft the report tell me that the committee will accuse the CIA of recruiting Mafia mobsters to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro. The committee will also charge that the CIA supplied weapons and money to the assassins who killed Dominican Dictator Raphael Trujillo.

The Senate report will also call for changes in the law to prevent the CIA or any other government agency from participating in any future plots to murder foreign leaders.

The committee will also conduct public hearings this fall into such intelligence activities as domestic spying, FBI burglaries, mail openings, telephone taps and Internal Revenue harassment.

Sassy Solons: Irreverence seems to be the hallmark of the freshman class of Congress. The junior members, for example, are behind the move to dump House Speaker Carl Albert.

Recently, the Air Force had the temerity to release an investigative report to the press before giving it to the young congressman who asked for it. An Air Force general visited the lawmaker to offer his abject apology. "I feel like turning in my sword," said the brass hat.

Came the reply: "Why don't you fall on it first."

Privileged Customers: All mail delivered to congressmen is supposed to carry stamps or the congressional frank. But the House post office relaxes its rules for a few privileged mailers. Embassies, federal agencies and even some lobbying groups, with a little help from their favorite legislators, get their mail delivered to congressional boxes for nothing. It costs the taxpayers a lot of money, but the House postmaster says the service is an important courtesy.

Friendly Flyboys: The Air Force recently saved the day for Sen. Edmund Muskie. He was in his home state of Maine when word came that the Senate was planning a crucial tally on the new voting rights bills.

Muskie raced to the airport, but missed the plane by minutes. He tried to get a charter, but none were available. So he called the nearby Loring Air Force Base to see if they had any southbound flights available.

The brass re-routed a training flight from the Midwest to Washington, and Muskie made the vote with just minutes to spare.

A farmer is a man who wears out two pairs of overalls growing enough cotton for one.

A farmer can shape an ax handle from a persimmon sprout and shoe a horse with a hunk of car tire.

A FARMER STARTS every year with nothing, loses everything he grows and at the end of the year comes out even. Nobody knows how he does it. He doesn't even know himself.

What are farmers made of?

Farmers are made of bent nails, rusty horseshoes, barbed wire and are held together with calluses.

During planting time and harvest season, he finishes his 40-hour week by Tuesday noon; then, painin' from tractor-back, he puts in another 72.

He can make a harness out of hay wire, feed sacks and shoe scraps. He grows corn and melons mostly to make fat crows.

He loads his planter with $1,500 worth of seed, fertilizer, herbicide and insecticide. That's one hour's worth. In a normal farm afternoon, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., he'll bury $13,500 in the ground.

Odds are it'll get too wet or too dry, or there'll be hail, wind, early frost, early snow, bugs, brickbats and bureaucrats. And, if he gets a good crop, he won't meet expenses.

YET THE ONLY LINES on a farmer's face are from grinning.

You look at his unattended chores, unpainted buildings, unsharpened tools and untidy barnlot and you say, "The smartest man in the world would starve trying to do all that!"

And you're right. The smartest man would starve.

But not the farmer.

His wife won't let him. She has a basic menu; she serves what she has. In good years that may be six vegetables at one meal. In lean years she jumps from poke salad to black-eyed peas.

The farmer orders a 17-in. John Deere disc — $4,300. By the time it's delivered it's $6,500.

HE'S GOT A $40,000 MACHINE needing repair. It's 5:30 p.m. and the company-owned stores are closed. And he's got 5 hours of daylight he can't let go to waste. So he borrows a machine from a neighbor, is moving it into the driveway when he's run into a ditch by some joker pulling a boat.

Yet he remains the world's most stubborn optimist.

He believes that the fact he's come this far proves he can go the rest of the way. He buries last year's disappointments with springtime plowing because his faith is not in himself alone. He'll finish a hard week's work with a 5-mile drive to church.

He plants in hope, cultivates in faith and ends in debt; then starts over with greater hope and stronger faith.

Heaven help the family that depends on a farmer for support.

Heaven help the nation that doesn't have him to support it.

Question: "I'm almost 70. Does that mean that I have escaped cancer?"

ANSWERline: Unfortunately, the cancer risk follows us through life, increasing with age. But, cancer safeguards follow us through life as well. The same advice that was useful when you were 40 holds true now: have a regular physical checkup including cancer tests. In deed, a "procto", the test for possible bowel cancer, might be especially important for you now because this form of cancer is more prevalent in your age group. It's more curable when detected early.

ROB MORRIS HONORED AT FLORENCE OES

At the regular August meeting of Florence Chapter No. 440, Order of Eastern Star, Rob Morris, the founder was honored with a very impressive reading titled "Symbolism of Eastern Star" given by program chairman Helon Whittenberg. The Worthy Matron Mary Alice Alberts and Worthy Patron Joseph A. Alberts presided over the meeting. The Worthy Matron announced that the booth during Friendship Days was very successful and all proceeds were given to the Masonic Building Fund. She also announced that a country store would be held during November and requested all members to be preparing items for the store. The Worthy Matron and her secretary Marie Mueller will be attending Grand Chapter in Dallas the first week in October. Hostesses for the evening were Helon Whittenberg, Nelda Burgess, Les Burgess and Wilma Clinkscates. It was also announced that the September 11th meeting will be Friendship Night with a salad supper. All Eastern friends are cordially invited to bring a salad and enjoy a night of Friendship with Florence Friends.

Captain and Mrs. Kenny McGinty of Tampa, Florida are visiting in the Ernest Mullen home for several days after attending the wedding of her brother Gary Mullen and Judith Ann Hodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lockhart and family of Austin spent Sunday in the Lloyd Lockhart home.

Mrs. Ernest Mullen, Mrs. Kenny McGinty, Miss Kimberly Hodges and Mrs. Al Alberts were shopping in Taylor, Georgetown and Austin. Honor guest at the H. F. Miller home Sunday was Mrs. Millers grandson Gene Selvey who had returned home after 18 months in Turkey. Others enjoying the occasion with the Millers and Gene were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Selvey and family of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stapp of Florence.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Alberts are spending their vacation in Bandera, at the Peaceful Valley Guests Ranch until after Labor Day. They anticipate catching some large catfish out of the Medina River, what time they are not riding horseback and shooting the rapids down the swift, beautiful river. They will be joined for Labor Day by the Melvin Sawyer family of Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller visited in Georgetown and Lampasas Monday.

Mrs. G. N. Townsend was in Belton on business Monday.

for the Days AHEAD

Even now trees are being felled, cords of wood cut, in preparation for cold winter days which are sure to come. Woodcutters are preparing for the days ahead, to bring comfort against the cold.

To prepare for our future "cold days," periods of sadness, times of bereavement, and times when we are tempest tossed, begin now to attend church regularly and let God, His Church, and His people help you to meet any situation in life.

"Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the father of mercies, and the God of all comfort; who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God." 2 Cor. 1:3, 4.

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

(Editor's Note: Stuart Long is on vacation, and in his stead Scott Carpenter, of our Capitol Staff is giving his view from a long experience of investigative reporting in Austin.)

By Scott Carpenter
AUSTIN — Employees of the Texas House of Representatives use an intricate bookkeeping system to make sure they can announce that a member is not spending state money for his personal affairs.

It is really doubtful that a member would do so, in light of the problems in past years of folks using postage stamps when they supposedly should not. But the entire idea is a source of great embarrassment to some Legislators, and well it should be, because when they spend $12.1 billion just to run the State, they don't want folks saying they're wheeling on the nickles and dimes.

Frugal members of the Legislature may enjoy the problems caused by the "overspenders" and it is still a source of pride to not have your name on that list.

Now there is a new rash of expense account stories, brought on by one of the members of the House. And it was for a good reason.

Rep. Pete Laney of Hale Center, chairman of the House Administration Committee, asked for an attorney general's opinion on whether overspending by House members constituted a criminal violation of the law.

Attorney General John L. Hill replied that if the overspending was intentional, it would constitute official misconduct, subjecting the representative to prosecution with a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

The announcement that there was no House member with a red ink expense account did not mean that no House member had spent more than the allocation.

Basically, three procedures were used for those who had spent more than their monthly allocation in one month.

The stamp slush fund helped some of the accounts out of the red. Under the system used by the House, when a legislator does not spend all of his monthly funds, the remainder goes into a special postage reserve account, which can total as much as $3,000. Should a member spend more than his regular allocation in one month, all postage charges to his account are shifted to the reserve account, thereby reducing the drain on his regular allocation.

For representatives who have been in the House more than one term, there is another special account, a continuing reserve account. At the end of 1974, House members who had positive balances in their expense accounts were allowed to carry that over to 1975 as a special reserve account for them, up to a maximum $3,000 carryover.

That allows the older members of the House to run over their expense accounts more than their postage spending and still remain in the black.

The third system is the personal check. Any legislator who spends more than his allocation, and doesn't get into the black in either of the other two ways can simply write a personal check to the State and his

Community Theater enters into new year

Fall heralds the beginning of many things; the new fiscal year for some governments and companies, the school year, football season and the Georgetown Area Community Theater's new season.

The theater's newly elected officers — Gin Dodson, president; Virgil Carlson, vice president; Anne Marie Doering, treasurer, and the Board — Wendell Osborn, Evelyn Shell, Dora Davis, Bill Holmans, Gene Hargett, Tony Kegel and Francis Springer — and Kathy Holmans, secretary are busy getting things in shape.

First item of business is the Patron Membership Drive. What is a patron? A patron is someone who gives and gets. Gives $25 to the theater and gets personal satisfaction out of helping this community project flourish and two tickets to each of the four scheduled productions.

What are the productions? A mystery, a comedy (ever had Sids in your Eyes?), a children's production and a melodrama.

Is it worth it? Ask anyone who saw last year's productions. The frustrations gotten rid of by hissing and booing the villain in the melodrama was worth the whole membership, they all agreed.

Letters will be going out within the next two weeks. Those who fit the patron description but don't get a letter, are urged to contact a theater member or drop a line to P.O. Box 567, Georgetown.

Notice to all current members — the "Super Cast Party" is scheduled for 6:30 p.m., September 6 at the theater. It's a costume affair, so start thinking. The ballots and reservation requests will be in the mail this week.

Leander man joins Air Force

William G. McHugh of Leander enlisted in the U. S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program recently, according to TSgt Ledom Plemons, U. S. Air Force Recruiter in Austin.

McHugh, a 1974 graduate of Round Rock High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the U. S. Air Force on 17, Nov. 75.

Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week course at the Basic Military Training School, Lackland AFB, Texas, he will receive training in the Electronics Field.

McHugh will be earning credits toward a Career Education Certificate through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

account will not be in the red. Since the revelations of abuses in the use of expense accounts in the late 1960s and early '70s, several systems have been attempted to ensure that the accounts are used properly.

Former House Speaker Price Daniels Administration attempted to severely limit accumulations of funding for postage. That raised complaints from legislators, who contended that they just could get enough in their postage accounts to fund mass mailings to the residents of their districts.

The system developed by Speaker Bill Clayton was a modification of the Daniel system, allowing the accumulation and some carry over provisions. However, it was nothing like the system as operated under House Speaker Gus Mutscher, when several legislators had expense accounts totaling tens of thousands of dollars.

JARRELL NEWS

RUTH CARSON 746-2791

We ended the news on Thursday with: you asked for it and here it is — the schedule for the Big Blue Jarrell Cougars! — the question, where was it? what happened? — It must have gotten lost, but ah ha, I found it at the top of page six, section 1 of the Thursday Sun; we trust you still have your Sun, quick, cut out the Football Schedule so you will know when those Cougars will be playing and plan to attend the games.

The fellas and girls of the Jarrell Community enjoyed their first "School Holidays" on Thursday and Friday for this school year.

Congratulations to the Jerry Valentas, they have a new granddaughter.

Best wishes to Runelle Baker

and Beulah Gilbreath in their new adventures. I will miss them at the Sun office.

As I read the comments on taxes, in the Passing Glance last week, this thought crossed my mind—I pass it on to you: The wages of sin are the only wages not subject to income tax.

Remember to VOTE to keep the doors of your church open by attending the services this Sunday.

Have a Happy Lord's Day — and let us hear from you.

Snakebites seldom kill

Snakebites very seldom kill. Some 45,000 persons are bitten by snakes each year in the United States, says the Texas Medical Association.

Of the 45,000 bites, some 8,000 are by venomous snakes. Despite these many bites by poisonous snakes, deaths from snake venom poisoning have not exceeded 12 per year in the past five years.

In some 20 percent of the bites of poisonous snakes, no venom is actually injected.

While there are more than 3,000 species of snakes, only 300 or so are sufficiently poisonous to be of danger to man. In the United States, there are some 120 species of snakes, about 20 of which are venomous. These latter include rattlesnakes, cottonmouth water moccasins, copperheads and coral snakes.

Injection of antivenin as soon as possible after the bite is highly important in treatment.

Tuttle joins U.S. Air Force

James J. Tuttle of Jarrell enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program recently, according to TSgt Ledom Plemons, U.S. Air Force Recruiter in Austin.

James, a 1975 graduate of Jarrell High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the U.S. Air Force on Oct. 7. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week course at the Basic Military Training School, Lackland AFB, Texas, he will receive training in the Electronics.

James will be earning credits toward a Career Education Certificate through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

Round Rock School Board agreed to pay $2000 to a 16-year-old boy for court costs and damages stemming from a bout with the boy's lawyer in federal court last February in which U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts of Austin ruled the Round Rock school drug abuse policy unconstitutional. The board decided to let the federal court ruling that reinstated sophomore J. Forrest Taylor remain uncontested. Taylor was expelled from Round Rock High School "for drug abuse violations," Roberts ordered the school district to reinstate Taylor for the remainder of the school year. "WE DECIDED that pursuing the case could mean spending untold amounts. Therefore we will not contest the ruling," said James Carothers, school board members.

J. C. Hinesley, in a letter to the board, advised this action. He said, "I believe that in the long run it will be in the interest, at least financially, of the school district to settle the litigation on this basis."

THE FEDERAL SUIT was filed against trustees of the Round Rock district and the school system by Mr. and Mrs. J. Forrest Taylor Jr., parents of the high school student. According to testimony, Taylor and another student were found January 24, smoking a marijuana cigarette by Department of Public Safety Patrolman Richard Looby behind Round Rock West during the school day. No arrest was made.

This year, a major change has been made in suspension policies by the district, whether for violation of drug or other policies or for other reasons.

No longer will one-day, three-day or "rest of the semester" expulsions be administered.

"So often, these are treated more like vacations than punishment," Supt. Noel Grisham said.

"Our real obligation and interest is not punishment in the first place. It is advancing the educational and social well being of the student."

TO MEET THESE, Round Rock has initiated an "on-campus suspension program" in which students will no longer be sent home. Instead, they will be assigned to a Special Assignments Class (SAC) which will be administered for both high school and middle school by Daniel Baker.

These students will be put into a rigidly structured routine, segregated from other students. Eventually the program will be housed in Northside, after Voight School opens and Northside is no longer used as an elementary campus.

For the duration of their suspension, the students will remain in SAC, then return to regular classes.

"We genuinely expect to be able to assist them academically while they are in SAC, but we also expect it to be unpleasant enough that they will not want to return," Grisham said.

Rosson gets U.H. degree

Richard S. Rosson of Georgetown was one of 1500 students, who were candidates for degrees or diplomas awarded by the University of Houston in summer commencement ceremonies Saturday, August 16. He received his B.A. in Marketing.

Willard E. Walbridge, chairman of the board, Houston Chamber of Commerce, delivered the commencement address. Walbridge is also senior vice president of Capital Cities Communications, Inc., the parent company of KTRK-TV, Channel 13, in Houston.

The exercise was held in Hofheinz Pavilion on the UH Central Campus and was televised to conclusion by KUHT-TV (Channel 8), the UH public broadcast facility.

UH President Philip G. Hoffman conferred degrees and diplomas, and candidates for graduation were presented by Dr. Roger Singleton, acting vice president and dean of faculties at UH. Singleton also introduced honor graduates.

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

Our community has many assets, all of which have come about with no small amount of cooperative effort by our people. We have a street lighting system that is unexcelled, and it is performing an invaluable service to all of us. It has been proven that the crime and vandalism, as well as the accident rate both auto and pedestrian is much lower in well-lighted areas.

Our lights were obtained at a special rate on a special deal which makes their price much lower than they could be gotten today. Because of the cost of our lights being shared, no one is required to make any prohibitive payment; surely, the small amount that each contributes is a low price to pay for the many benefits that everyone in and around our community receive from these lights! We urge you to contact Jim Burnett at the Corner Washeteria, or J. H. Wilson, to make your contribution toward the maintenance of our lights. Let's keep our town well lighted!

The preliminary enrollment in the Liberty Hill Elementary School was two-hundred and thirty students as of Thursday morning, and the total for the Liberty Hill Junior and Senior High School was one hundred and thirty-nine students. A few more students can be expected to enroll with in the next few days. Louise Noble, the Elementary principal, and Gene Buchhorn, the High School principal, were well pleased with the way that the registration was accomplished. I believe that we would not be wrong in expecting a successful year for our school with bigger and better things to befall us in the coming months.

Rhane Hoppe, our music teacher has asked us to remind all of the parents of the band members that there will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 26, in the band hall. Everyone is urged to attend this meeting!

Coach Daryl Moffitt has submitted the following roster for the Liberty Hill High School football players: Perry Baugh, Wade Cullum, Charles Carlisle, Donald Poling, Jesse Pearson, Travis Gilmore, Mike Sullins, Mark Walker, Robert Stephens, Roy Montemayor, Edward Smith, Edward Brewster, Eric Weems, and Donnie Johnson. It appears that this year's Panther Squad is amply endowed with much potential for their first game.

The names of the Junior High School players will be forthcoming in the near future.

The Panther Booster Club will meet on Tuesday evening, August 26, at 7:30 in the Liberty Hill school gym. The agenda for the meeting includes the election of new officers, planning for a booth at "The Liberty Hill Market Day" on September 6, and planning for projects to raise the necessary funds to repay the $3300 loan that the club got to complete the tennis courts. Help is needed to construct the fence around the tennis courts, and, most emphatically, we stress that money is needed yet to repay the loan.

These tennis courts constitute an athletic facility that will provide recreation for the entire community, and we should all be proud that the Booster Club has worked so tirelessly to provide our community with such. Anyone who hasn't contributed to this project should do so!

Many, if not most, of the civilized countries in the world have recognized the harmful effects that cigarettes have, and they have passed laws to govern the use of these deadly things. A new law restricting smoking in Texas will become effective on September 1, 1975, and even though the impact may not be as great as it should be it is hoped that this law will provide the extra incentive that is needed for those people who have been intending to quit!

It is high time that something be done to restrict and control this habit of a minority that is having such a deadly, unpleasant effect on everyone! DON'T SMOKE!

Larry Hamann, a Counselor with the Williamson County Co-op, will be at the Liberty Hill School on Thursday of each week to talk with students who

Liberty Hill taxpayers foot education costs

Liberty Hill Independent School District will foot 53 percent of the $442,293 budget for 1975-76.

The budget estimates that $206,520 will be collected in Use the classified to sell unwanted items, find a job, or hire a worker. Call 863-6555.

local taxes and other revenue will bring the total local contribution to $236,278, with the state providing $206,015.

To meet demands of the budget, including the operation of the new high school, trustees raised the tax rate from $2 per $100 valuation to $2.16 per $100 valuation.

Board President Russell Stultz said, "It is amazing that the increase is not greater than it is with inflation."

Liberty Hill High School is not accredited and for that reason, according to Superintendent James Perry, the school district must pay $16,000 for salaries for two vocational teachers. The state would pay those salaries for accredited schools. (The high school is not accredited because this is the first year of operation. It will be considered for accreditation during the coming school year.)

PERRY BUDGETED $12,000 for electricity allowing for a 10 percent increase in rates. Twenty-five hundred dollars was budgeted for telephone and telegraph services.

Budgeted to go for principle to retire bond debts was $23,500. Also, $49,600 was budgeted for interest on bond debts.

Land improvements including sidewalks, streets, trees and shrubbery has an estimated expenditure of $15,601. Purchase of vehicles for the district was budgeted at $28,758.

Total capital outlay expenditures including the purchase of vehicles, library books, band instruments and other items were $48,719.

Georgetown board adopts $29,151 athletic budget

Athletic programs cost the Georgetown School District approximately $6500 above gate receipts during the 1974-75 school year. Business Manager Jerry Graham said Thursday.

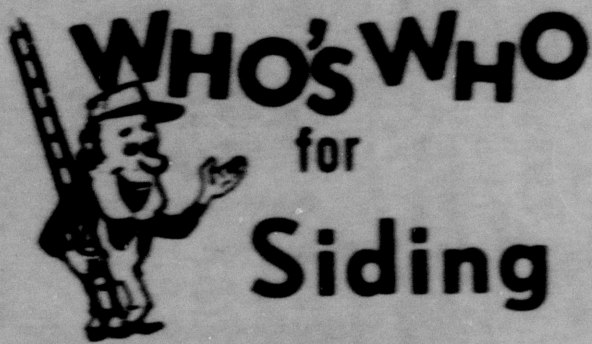

The school board adopted Monday night a $29,151 athletic budget, the same as last year's. Revenues from gate receipts were $21,000 last year while actual expenditures, excluding salaries for coaches and other athletic personnel, were $27,500.

Football drew the largest share of the budget with $18,225 allotted to that sport. Girls and boys basketball will receive a total of $4,800.

Other sports include:

- Baseball $1,600
- Tennis & Golf $1,225
- Track $1,950
- Volleyball $1,550

Faubion elementary to be dedicated Sunday

Ada Mae Faubion Elementary school will be dedicated and opened to public viewing from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. Sunday.

The Leander school district's new open-concept facility is located about one and a quarter miles south of Cedar Park on County Road 182, also known as Buttercup Road.

Guest of honor will be Mrs. Ada Mae Faubion, Leander teacher for 30 years, now retired, for whom the school is named.

Other special guests include Faubion principal Travis Henry, Leander elementary principal Julia Young, and Leander High principal Paul Jones.

All three are beginning their first year with the Leander school district.

Alice Brown, Leander director of instruction, and PTA member Emily Barnes are in charge of the dedication and open house, and Rev. Kenneth Baker of New Hope Baptist Church will also participate in the ceremonies.

Near-capacity enrollment of 450 is expected during 1975-76 for the new school, which is designed to accommodate 500 children in kindergarten through sixth grade.

Faubion, an "open" school, has no permanent interior walls. Enclosed rooms are provided for kindergarten classes and art class, and the science laboratory. All other classes, however, will be held within view and earshot of each other.

The school will serve communities along State Highway 183, including Shenandoah, Volente, Trails End, Jonestown, Cedar Park, and Mansfield Dam.

Commissioners to consider subdivision regulations

Williamson County Commissioners will consider the adoption of new subdivision regulations at Monday's court meeting. Held in the Auditor's Office, first floor of the courthouse, the meeting begins at 10 a. m.

Twenty other items are listed on the lengthy agenda.

A contract for $80,761 emergency job funds from the Federal CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program will be considered. The contract for the emergency jobs is between the county and the Federal government, but school districts, municipalities, libraries or other members of the public sector may use the funds for qualified employees.

Among other items to be considered:

- Sheriff's announcement of resignation of relief jailer and the hiring of a replacement.
- Application for a grant from Capital Area Planning Council for a central dispatch system for the county.

- Hiring a student through the vocational training program from Georgetown High School.
- Adoption of Standard Operation Procedures for the county ambulance service.
- Appointing a county-wide ambulance supervisor.
- Resignation of Justice of the Peace J. K. Harkins in Taylor and the appointment of a replacement.

Texas A&M mothers to meet

The first meeting of the Executive Board of the Federation of Texas A&M University Mothers' Clubs for 1975-76 will be held on Saturday, August 30, 1975, at the Memorial Student Center on the Texas A&M University campus.

Federation officers will be hostesses at a Coffee from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. in the Birch Room (Room 205). The Board Meeting will follow in the Assembly Room at 9:30 a.m. with Mrs. Fred L. May, Jr. of San Antonio, Texas, Federation President, presiding. All Club

Presidents, District Chairmen, and Executive Board Members are urged to attend.

Dr. Jack Williams, President of Texas A&M University, will address the group. Heads of various departments on campus will present activities and needs of their respective departments. Club projects for the coming year, along with other business, will be discussed and adopted at this time.

Mrs. Calvin Rinn is president of the Williamson County A&M Mother's Club.

Board adopts free lunch scale

Georgetown school cafeterias will serve free lunches to children who are eligible under annual family income guidelines set by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Milton Denham, administrator.

Applications for the program will be sent home with students on the first day of classes, Denham said. Children from families who think they qualify under the guidelines, will be given free lunches until the applications are processed, Denham explained. Costs will have to be repaid, if the family does not qualify.

Jaycee sponsor carnival

The carnival came to Georgetown this week through the efforts of the Georgetown Jaycees.

With nightly performances in San Gabriel Park, the group tried to raise money for the planting of trees at the new high school. According to David Skinner, head of the local group, one of the best money makers was the Jaycee dunking booth which featured local beauties.

A special performance was given by 33 children from Mary Bailey Day Care Friday afternoon. The Tam-Lyn amusements opened all rides to the children, gave each a candied apple or cotton candy and coke, and a necklace engraved with their individual names.

According to Skinner, "The kids really had a blast, and we hope we can sponsor this again."

★ Community Development

Federal regulations for obtaining Community Development funds are complex and a flow chart showing the required steps for funding reads like instructions on a Monopoly game board.

Though the Council will have the final say over which projects the city says it wants to undertake, HUD requires evidence that public input has been sought in making plans for Community Development.

Sams, who is also city Building Inspector, says his department will give technical advice to citizens who bring forward their own proposals for use of the money.

Local citizens will also have a chance to study the city's plans and voice their opinions on the projects through the Citizens Advisory Commission and the public hearings.

Forbes said citizens, Commission members, councilmen, and members of the Planning and Zoning Commission will be notified when a date for the next public hearing is set.

★ Reappraisal stuns

Leander district during the boom years of 1972, 1973, and part of 1974 were used to determine value, and asserted that sales now do not justify the final appraisal.

"If you use this method to tax and it succeeds," commented Garey, "you'll be the first rural school district in the state to have it go through and stick."

School officials blamed the seven year lapse between appraisals for the high valuation.

Garey also said the "farm and ranch exemption" is merely a deferment of taxes which will build up and fall due later.

"This is putting people in a corner," said Garey.

He added that "most of the people I represent are responsible and realize the value of good schools."

Garey said he had counseled against litigation, but did not omit the possibility of a lawsuit to alter the appraisal.

"I think there's a lot of unhappiness out there," he commented.

He said a solution to the problem might be a gradual escalation of the appraisal, to give property owners a chance to sell the land or pay taxes they could afford over a period of time.

Answering Garey, Board Vice-President Dr. Loyd Hampton said, "That's a very graphic description of the problems, Mr. Garey. But we might assign different emphases to other aspects of the problem."

"This board," continued Hampton, "feels responsible first of all to the school and to the taxpayers around the district. But the dilemma doesn't originate with the board. Short of allowing everyone to say what they will pay, we can't make everyone happy."

Leander's Tax Equalization Board will meet August 26-29 to hear the property owners' grievances.

Board members include Robert Stokes, Charles Craven, Cherry Enderlin, and alternate Fred Romberg.

BARBECUE COMIN' UP — Georgetown Volunteer Firemen Junior Doerfler, Bill Edmiston, and Jean Longino check the pits in preparation for the Fire Dept.'s annual Family Barbecue to be held Saturday night. Barbecue will be served from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the San Gabriel Park Community Building, with a dance afterward.

Firemen schedule Saturday barbecue

Barbecued beef with all the trimmings will be featured Saturday night, August 23 at the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Dept.'s 15th annual Family Barbecue in San Gabriel Park.

Tickets for the event, $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for children under ten, will be available at the door, from volunteer firemen, and at State Farm Insurance in Georgetown.

Barbecue will be served from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Community Building in the park, and plates to go will be available.

A dance will follow the barbecue, with tickets $3.00 per couple, $2.00 for singles.

the passing glance

By Don Scarbrough

The only noticeable effect to Georgetown citizens will be a bumpier ride, when and if the federal government ends revenue sharing with cities, City Manager Leo Wood told me Friday.

THE ONLY USE Georgetown has made of revenue sharing has been on our city streets, which have showed marked improvement since the program's inception. Loss of the bonus $50,000 annually would probably mean that less money could be spent on the streets and some of the pot-holes would be deeper and survive longer before being filled, Wood indicated.

Congress will shortly decide whether to extend the program and citizens are being alerted on a nation-wide basis that its demise could mean a sharp increase in city taxes. "I see no danger of this in Georgetown," Wood told me. "Our city operated with a surplus in fiscal year 1973-74 and figures to be released at the end of this month will probably show we had another surplus for fiscal year 1974-75. By paring down just slightly on expenditures we should be able to make it without asking for more tax money for some time to come."

Federal revenue sharing will end December 31, 1976 unless Congress approves an extension bill, which it probably will. City taxes may be the only thing that don't go up next year.

ABOUT 20 YEARS AGO a tornado dipped down on Italy and destroyed a sizeable hunk of that small community located south of Dallas. Aid to the stricken town was immediately offered and the incumbent congressman wired that federal funds to help out were being arranged for in Washington. Russell Bryant, then editor of the News-Herald at Italy, wired back: "Keep your money. Italy is still in better shape than Washington." The reply made Italy and Bryant a national sensation.

Russell once staged a fix-up, paint-up campaign for "down-town" Italy and got the governor of Texas, either Jester or Shivers, to don overalls and apply the first brush of paint.

He was an editor about 50 years but in 1968 sold his paper. Looking around for something to keep him busy, he bought a beauty parlor. For the next several years he attended Texas Press Association meetings and gleefully told us the advantages of running one of those businesses. "I deal with a much better looking clientele and these ladies cheerfully and promptly pay their bills," he chortled.

Russell went on to his reward a couple of weeks ago. I'll miss him at our meetings. He was a rather remarkable fellow.

Community Development input system due Sept. 8

Community Development Coordinator Tom Sams will soon present a scheme to stimulate public comment on the city's plans for use of $228,000 in Community Development funds to the Georgetown City Council.

Labels are required

Druggists' labels identifying medication, the prescribing doctor, and the prescribed dosage must be attached to all medicine containers, regardless of how innocent the contents may be, warns Mrs. Kenneth McCalla of Rt. 3.

Her son Clay found that out when he was charged by Austin police with driving under the influence of drugs last week because a medication container he was carrying had no prescription label.

According to Mrs. McCalla, 17 year-old Clay was enroute to Austin to visit his grandmother when Austin officers stopped him and searched his car.

The police found the container with three pills in Clay's glove compartment, said Mrs. McCalla, and promptly carted him away to jail.

The officers may have been somewhat abashed when Mrs. McCalla successfully identified the container's contents as Sumycin, a medication prescribed for Clay by an Austin doctor, and not illegal drugs.

But the law is the law, and no prescription label is a no-no.

"I think it's important for people to know they must have prescription labels on all containers," said Mrs. McCalla on Friday.

The plan, which will probably recommend setting the first of at least two public hearings on Community Development projects before the Citizens Advisory Commission, will be delivered to the Council at its regular meeting September 8, together with a resolution proposing adoption.

The city wants to use $228,000 due this year from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to improve storm drainage in three areas, construct a permanent Neighborhood Center in the Urban Renewal district, and buy two sections of blighted land to convert for public use.

Those proposals were unveiled at a public hearing before the Council on July 29.

Another hearing is set for January 12, 1976, and any number of others may be held during the next four and a half months.

The Citizens Advisory Commission, a committee of 23 Georgetown residents headed by C. A. Forbes of 1501 E 16th, will be the main forum for public input to the city's planning for use of the funds.

Under the federal Community Development and Housing Assistance Act of 1974, Georgetown won a $912,000 grant last March to fund urgently-needed public works and projects similar to Urban Renewal.

The city is scheduled to receive $228,000 each fiscal year from 1975-77, $152,000 in 1978, and $76,000 in 1979.

Last year the money was earmarked to help construct a water intake structure on the site of the future North Fork Lake as part of the city's effort to insure a plentiful water supply, which city fathers deemed Georgetown's most pressing need.

Projects proposed for this year would cost an estimated $386,549, leaving the city $58,549 short after all Community Development funds are used.

Proposals include drainage projects for the San Jose, Ash, and West 14th street areas.

The San Jose project, cost $71,700, would involve reshaping the Smith's Branch stream beds, building up the stream's banks, and rearranging culverts in the area to drain storm runoff into Smith's Branch.

The city wants to continue its Ash street drainage program, at a cost of $86,849.

A third project along West 14th would require reshaping storm sewers to drain into the South San Gabriel at a cost of $18,000.

Sams said architect Tim Hansen of Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities Inc., the local community action agency, is still designing a proposed permanent Neighborhood Center to replace the temporary facility.

The Center would be constructed, for about $25,000, in a park off Scenic Drive in the Urban Renewal area.

Real estate being eyed by the city for purchase with Community Development funds includes two tracts designated the Old Gin and Old Oil Mill properties.

The Old Gin acreage consists of nearly a city block located between Timber, West, Ninth, and Tenth streets.

Almost two city blocks between Candee, Leander, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth make up the Old Oil Mill lot.

The city proposes to buy those tracts for $85,000 and develop them for public use.

Schools raise lunch prices

Price of lunches in Georgetown school cafeterias will be five cents higher than it was last year.

Milton Denham, school administrator, said that prices are still comparatively lower than other school districts in the area. He also told school board members Monday night, as he made the recommendation for the increase that after the cafeteria operations get underway, the prices can be lowered, if the district finds they can afford it.

During the past school year, the cafeterias collected $71,994 from lunches served. State reimbursements for meals were $72,859 bringing the total amount of revenues to $144,853.

Disbursements for the year were $141,798.

Prices set by the school board are:

• K-2	50 cents
• 3-8	55 cents
• 9-12	65 cents
• Teacher	85 cents.

Week's news in a nutshell

GEORGETOWN CITY OFFICIALS say electricity rates will probably rise again next month.

Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) intends to nearly double its fuel adjustment charge to the city in September, which means the Council will probably add more than 60 percent of the base rate charged local customers onto bills sent out in October.

"We just want to warn customers to watch their consumption," said City Manager Leo Wood.

BROTHERS FERNANDO AND LEONEL ORTIZ have been indicted on three counts each of attempted capital murder by the 26th District Court grand jury.

The men were arrested July 16 and charged with the attempted murder of two state narcotics agents and a third man with the agents after an alleged drug bust at a roadside park near Florence fell through.

Bond was set at $75,000 for each. The grand jury also indicted 16 other persons.

THREE SCHOOL BOARDS in Williamson County adopted their 1975-76 budgets during the past week. One of the boards raised property taxes, and a fourth one, which has not adopted its budget, set a $5.6 million bond election.

A $2.58 million budget was approved and adopted Monday night by Georgetown trustees, who also continued the local tax rate of $1.82 per $100 assessed value.

Surplus funds totaling $243,395 were left over from the 1974-75 budget after amendment.

FLORENCE SCHOOL DISTRICT raised property taxes 25¢, Monday, to cover an expected $23,585 budget deficit for the coming school year.

Florence trustees set the maintenance tax at $1.32 per $100 assessed value and the sinking fund tax at 48¢ in adopting Supt. Lee Roy Knauth's $438,839 budget proposal.

LEANDER SCHOOL TRUSTEES, at their Thursday meeting, formally set September 20 as the date for a $5.6 million bond election.

Ten major repair and construction projects would be financed by the bonds, if passed, including: a new senior high school, a new high school football and track stadium, and additions to the Leander elementary, junior, and senior high schools.

Included on the Sept. 20 ballot will be a second proposition to allow the school board to set the maximum allowable maintenance tax of $1.50 per $100 assessed value.

Board member Bob Luce cast the only vote against the election, saying, "I didn't feel the timing is right."

Reappraisal stuns Leander

Garey flays land valuation

Property revaluations recently calculated for the Leander Independent School District have "sent some people to bed sick," says attorney Jack Garey, a property owner in the district.

Garey appeared before the Leander school board Thursday night as spokesman for a group of property owners protesting the new appraisal, which he says raised the overall valuation of the district more than four times, from $47 million to $187 million.

The land owners have scheduled an open meeting in the Leander High School cafeteria at 8 p.m. Monday (August 25) to discuss the notices of revaluation they received last week, and to consider possible responses to the appraisal, the district's first since 1968.

Garey spoke to the trustees informally after they set a $5.6 million bond election for school improvements for Sept. 20 during a special meeting.

"I'm here to say you have a tremendous problem with this appraisal," Garey told the board.

He said, "I've talked to people who simply won't be able to pay these taxes, and it has literally sent some of them to bed sick."

No tax assessment ratio has been set on the market value of the district, which Garey claims hiked some individual valuations 10 to 25 times.

But neither lower assessments, lower tax rates, nor a combination, continued Garey, will offset the increased valuation.

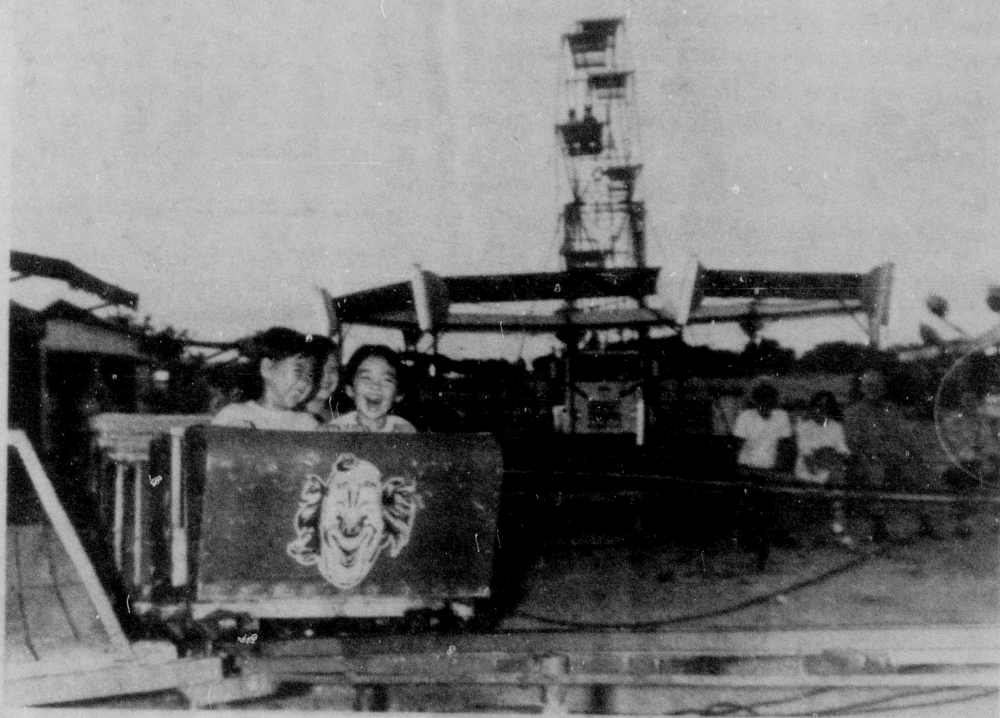

Citing the example of a neighbor whose property valuations he said increased from $6,000 to $90,000 under the new appraisal, Garey said, "I have played around with these figures, and you just can't set rates or ratios people can live with under a 1500 percent increase in valuation."

Garey contended the "market data" approach used by Professional Appraisal Company of Arlington in its nine-month revaluation of the Leander district was based on obsolete information.

"This is a dead market," said Garey, assailing the market data system, which is based on land sales. He explained that land sales in the

Not just leftwingers

Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the mammoth First Baptist Church of Dallas, recently sermonized on detente, American-Russia style, and, according to the Dallas Morning News, "he took it apart, joint by joint and barbecued it. The odor still lingers."

Continuing, the editorial quoted: "The Soviet Union is like the Assyrian empire of the Biblical times—ruthless, merciless, cruel. Why then are we appealing it? The reason lies in the left-wingers... who are eager to support a government that more and more regiments the people and grasps the reins of industry."

DR CRISWELL RAISED the supremely pertinent point: "What are we getting out of detente? The Kremlin promises to give its people a few basic human rights, like receiving foreign visitors. In return, the American president declines to invite Alexander Solzhenitsyn to the White House 'because we are afraid of offending Russia.'"

The SUN has expressed similar thoughts for years, but won't agree that only the "left-wingers" support detente with the Russians.

Our wheat and grain farmers, for instance, sure aren't left-leaners, but most of them support a program that supplies a market for their produce.

Many of our manufacturers, including IBM, ITT, and other such giants, want to do business with the Soviets and favor a political condition that makes such trade possible.

Frankly, the SUN feels our trade with the Russians perpetuates and bolsters a cruel regime that might well fall on its face if we didn't help out every time it gets in trouble.

WE ASSUME THAT our country is getting paid for all the stuff we sent to the Russians, however, and it might well be that the overall effect benefits this country more than it does Russia. At least, fat Russians enjoying breads made from American wheat aren't as dangerous as lean, hungry Russians looking for new farmlands to conquer.

At best, the subject of detente is mighty tricky and hard to judge. The thought of doing business with an outfit that has sworn to "bury" us isn't appetizing but the idea of turning down good business and seeing grain prices drop to $1.00 a bushel isn't good, either.

Panel on beauty

It has been suggested to us that the City of Georgetown appoint a "Good Taste Committee" to help it with decisions that affect the beauty of the community.

IT ISN'T A BAD SUGGESTION, either. Our City Dads are intelligent men and some might have extra perception in "All Things Bright and Beautiful," but, on the other hand, they have a multitude of decisions to make that give them precious little time to consider the esthetic.

There are probably a dozen or so people in this exceptional community who are well qualified to judge and create the beautiful. The late Bob Lancaster was one of these and his contribution to the city was outstanding and enduring.

We believe our City Fathers would find it useful if they had a panel of experts to turn to when they face decisions that enhance or detract from the community's beauty. At least, it would give them a chance to pass the buck!

Think it over. If you like the idea, contact your favorite mayor or councilman. And tell him so.

Washington Report

Congressman J. J. Pickle

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Few creatures on earth call to mind more stories and evoke more wanderings of the imagination than the great whales. Now the countries of the world are engaged in a great debate on whether the whale should be allowed to survive or whether Japan, Russia, and others should be allowed to fish them into extinction.

Moral and philosophical arguments that man should not be responsible for the extinction of any species seem to carry a special weight where these giants of the deep are concerned. But the effort to save the whale has more than sentimental significance.

While we do not know of any bad effects which would occur in the balance of nature if the whale were to disappear, it is more accurate to say that we do not know much in this field at all. Because we cannot document any such effects yet does not mean they would not crop up.

Compelling evidence indicates that these dinosaurs of the deep may be more a key to the future than they are a link with the past. If the future of the earth lies anywhere, it lies in our oceans. Yet we know more about the surface of the moon than we do about the waters covering two-thirds of the world. Whales are helping to break old barriers in oceanic research. From them we are learning how air-breathing animals can dive to great depths below the ocean's surface. Recently we have learned that whales have an extremely highly developed communication system covering vast areas of the oceans. Studying this can improve our own communications both under and above water.

And in the last few years we have come to realize that whales are highly intelligent creatures, possibly more intelligent than the higher primates like chimps. If this is so, then the whales, big and small, are man's closest companions in the earth's scheme of life.

At a recent meeting in London, England, the International Whaling Commission made significant steps toward saving the whale. Specifically, for the first time all the whales will be covered by an agreed-to fishing quota management program.

Meany's grain boycott

The boycott of grain shipments to the Soviet Union, as instituted by the AFL-CIO's maritime unions, is not a solution to the problems it addresses chiefly the threat of added inflation as a result of this measurable drain on the United States food supply.

But it does force public attention to certain important questions, and presumably will induce government response, either in the form of a fresh policy statement or new regulatory procedure.

A boycott should not be allowed to be the controlling influence on exports over a period of time. As a short-term publicity device, however, the boycott announced by George Meany, AFL-CIO president, effectively raises a key question: whether the federal government should be consulted before private grain sales abroad are finalized.

There is much to be said for this viewpoint that transactions so significantly affecting the supply and price of foods in the United States should at least come under government scrutiny in time for some publicity and debate. It is preferable to a procedure that would leave the government only the avenue of contract annulments or other drastic action.

Mr. Meany's preference for sales directly between governments, rather than by private grain interests to the Soviet Union, is not easy to figure out. There is little reason to think that this formality would make a great deal of difference in end results.

But the main thrust of the boycott, and Mr. Meany's rhetoric in support of it, is a demand for clearly stated government policy "that will protect the American consumer and also the American shipping interests." He deplores the "open door to the private grain markets" that will "cost the American consumers billions of dollars."

The implications of such language are that the government is unmindful of the impact of huge grain sales, has not been alert to economic effects of its mainly hands-off policy

where transactions with the Soviet Union are concerned. But the fact is that President Ford has already acted to call a temporary halt to such grain sales. And past decisions to permit huge sales abroad have been the result of weighing their usefulness in furthering detente and strengthening the dollar on foreign exchange markets.

Although to Mr. Meany and many others the extra inflation brought about by earlier grain sales is a simple cause-and-effect matter, such a view fails to take account of the complexity of foreign relations and indeed of the national economy, where a great many factors are operating to affect prices.

Of all Mr. Meany's demands, the one that is easiest to support is the insistence that United States shipping lines be guaranteed a certain share in the grain-export business generated by such large deals. This has been done in the past, and it should be done again.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ford Risking All
On Business Program

WASHINGTON — President Ford has told subordinates that his chances of winning the 1976 election will depend upon the economy. He has asked them to give top priority to stimulating the economy.

The President believes the best way to do this is to hold down government spending and to encourage business investments. He intends to offer more incentives, therefore, to stimulate business.

He also swore to subordinates that he will continue to veto the big-spending bills that come out of Congress. This kind of spending, he believes, will only steepen inflation and drive up prices.

There is one curious exception to the President's policy. He not only doesn't mind high oil prices, but he would like to seem them go higher.

He has told subordinates earnestly that it will take high prices to compel Americans to cut back their oil consumption. This is essential, he said, to make the U.S. less dependent upon Arab oil. Thus, he is pushing ahead with plans to "de-control" the price of domestic oil.

While the oil companies rake in the money, meanwhile, the average American will see his wallet grow even thinner.

This is the assessment of the former South Vietnamese regime. The worst that has happened to them has been enforced "re-education" in communist principles.

The latest intelligence reports, meanwhile, contain ominous new warnings. There is evidence that communist insurgents are getting captured American weapons from the Vietnamese for use in Thailand and Malaysia.

The intelligence reports warn that the communists are preparing for a major guerrilla offensive in both countries. This could turn Thailand and Malaysia into another Vietnam by 1977, according to the reports. We'll have to wait, of course, to find out whether these reports are accurate.

CIA Report: The Senate intelligence committee will issue its preliminary findings next month on the CIA assassination plots against foreign rulers.

Sources who are helping to draft the report tell me that the committee will accuse the CIA of recruiting Mafia mobsters to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro. The committee will also charge that the CIA supplied weapons and money to the assassins who killed Dominican Dictator Raphael Trujillo.

The Senate report will also call for changes in the law to prevent the CIA or any other government agency from participating in any future plots to murder foreign leaders.

The committee will also conduct public hearings this fall into such intelligence activities as domestic spying, FBI burglaries, mail openings, telephone taps and Internal Revenue harassment.

Sassy Solons: Irreverence seems to be the hallmark of the freshman class of Congress. The junior members, for example, are behind the move to dump House Speaker Carl Albert.

Recently, the Air Force had the temerity to release an investigative report to the press before giving it to the young congressman who asked for it. An Air Force general visited the lawmaker to offer his abject apology: "I feel like turning in my sword," said the brass hat.

Came the reply: "Why don't you fall on it first."

Privileged Customers: All mail delivered to congressmen is supposed to carry stamps or the congressional frank. But the House post office relaxes its rules for a few privileged mailers. Embassies, federal agencies and even some lobbying groups, with a little help from their favorite legislators, get their mail delivered to congressional boxes for nothing. It costs the taxpayers a lot of money, but the House postmaster says the service is an important courtesy.

Friendly Flyboys: The Air Force recently saved the day for Sen. Edmund Muskie. He was in his home state of Maine when word came that the Senate was planning a crucial tally on the new voting rights bills.

Muskie raced to the airport, but missed the plane by minutes. He tried to get a charter, but none were available. So he called the nearby Loring Air Force Base to see if they had any southbound flights available.

The brass re-routed a training flight from the Midwest to Washington, and Muskie made the vote with just minutes to spare.

Paul Harvey

A farmer is a man who wears out two pairs of overalls growing enough cotton for one.

A farmer can shape an ax handle from a persimmon sprout and shoe a horse with a hunk of car tire.

A FARMER STARTS every year with nothing, loses everything he grows and at the end of the year comes out even. Nobody knows how he does it. He doesn't even know himself.

What are farmers made of?

Farmers are made of bent nails, rusty horseshoes, barbed wire and are held together with calluses.

During planting time and harvest season, he finishes his 40-hour week by Tuesday noon; then, painin' from tractor-back, he puts in another 72.

He can make a harness out of hay wire, feed sacks and shoe scraps. He grows corn and melons mostly to make fat crows.

He loads his planter with $1,500 worth of seed, fertilizer, herbicide and insecticide. That's one hour's worth. In a normal farm afternoon, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., he'll bury $13,500 in the ground.

Odds are it'll get too wet or too dry, or there'll be hail, wind, early frost, early snow, bugs, brickbats and bureaucrats. And, if he gets a good crop, he won't meet expenses.

YET THE ONLY LINES on a farmer's face are from grinning.

You look at his unattended chores, unpainted buildings, unsharpened tools and untidy barnlot and you say, "The smartest man in the world would starve trying to do all that!"

And you're right. The smartest man would starve.

But not the farmer. His wife won't let him. She has a basic menu; she serves what she has. In good years that may be six vegetables at one meal. In lean years she jumps from poke salad to black-eyed peas.

The farmer orders a 17-in. John Deere disc — $4,300. By the time it's delivered it's $6,500.

HE'S GOT A $40,000 MACHINE needing repair. It's 5:30 p.m. and the company-owned stores are closed. And he's got 5 hours of daylight he can't let go to waste. So he borrows a machine from a neighbor, is moving it down the highway when he's run into a ditch by some joker pulling a boat.

Yet he remains the world's most stubborn optimist.

He believes that the fact he's come this far proves he can go the rest of the way. He buries last year's disappointments with springtime plowing because his faith is not in himself alone. He'll finish a hard week's work with a 5-mile drive to church.

He plants in hope, cultivates in faith and ends in debt; then starts over with greater hope and stronger faith.

Heaven help the family that depends on a farmer for support.

Heaven help the nation that doesn't have him to support it.

Question: "I'm almost 70. Does that mean that I have escaped cancer?"

ANSWERline: Unfortunately, the cancer risk follows us through life, increasing with age. But, cancer safeguards follow us through life as well. The same advice that was useful when you were 40 holds true now: have a regular physical checkup including cancer tests. In deed, a "procto", the test for possible bowel cancer, might be especially important for you now because this form of cancer is more prevalent in your age group. It's more curable when detected early.

ROB MORRIS HONORED AT FLORENCE OES

At the regular August meeting of Florence Chapter No. 440, Order of Eastern Star, Rob Morris, the founder was honored with a very impressive reading titled "Symbolism of Eastern Star" given by program chairman Helon Whittenberg. The Worthy Matron Mary Alice Alberts and Worthy Patron Joseph A. Alberts presided over the meeting. The Worthy Matron announced that the booth during Friendship Days was very successful and all proceeds were given to the Masonic Building Fund. She also announced that a country store would be held during November and requested all members to be preparing items for the store. The Worthy Matron and her secretary Marie Mueller will be attending Grand Chapter in Dallas the first week in October. Hostesses for the evening were Helon Whittenberg, Nelda Burgess, Les Burgess and Wilma Clinkscales. It was also announced that the September 11th meeting will be Friendship Night with a salad supper. All Eastern friends are cordially invited to bring a salad and enjoy a night of Friendship with Florence Friends.

Captain and Mrs. Kenny McGinty of Tampa, Florida are visiting in the Ernest Mullen home for several days after attending the wedding of her brother Gary Mullen and Judith Ann Hodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lockhart and family of Austin spent Sunday in the Lloyd Lockhart home. Mrs. Ernest Mullen, Mrs. Kenny McGinty, Miss Kimberly Hodges and Mrs. Al Alberts were shopping in Taylor, Georgetown and Austin.

Honor guest at the H. F. Miller home Sunday was Mrs. Miller's grandson Gene Selvey who had returned home after 18 months in Turkey. Others enjoying the occasion with the Millers and Gene were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Selvey and family of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stapp of Florence.

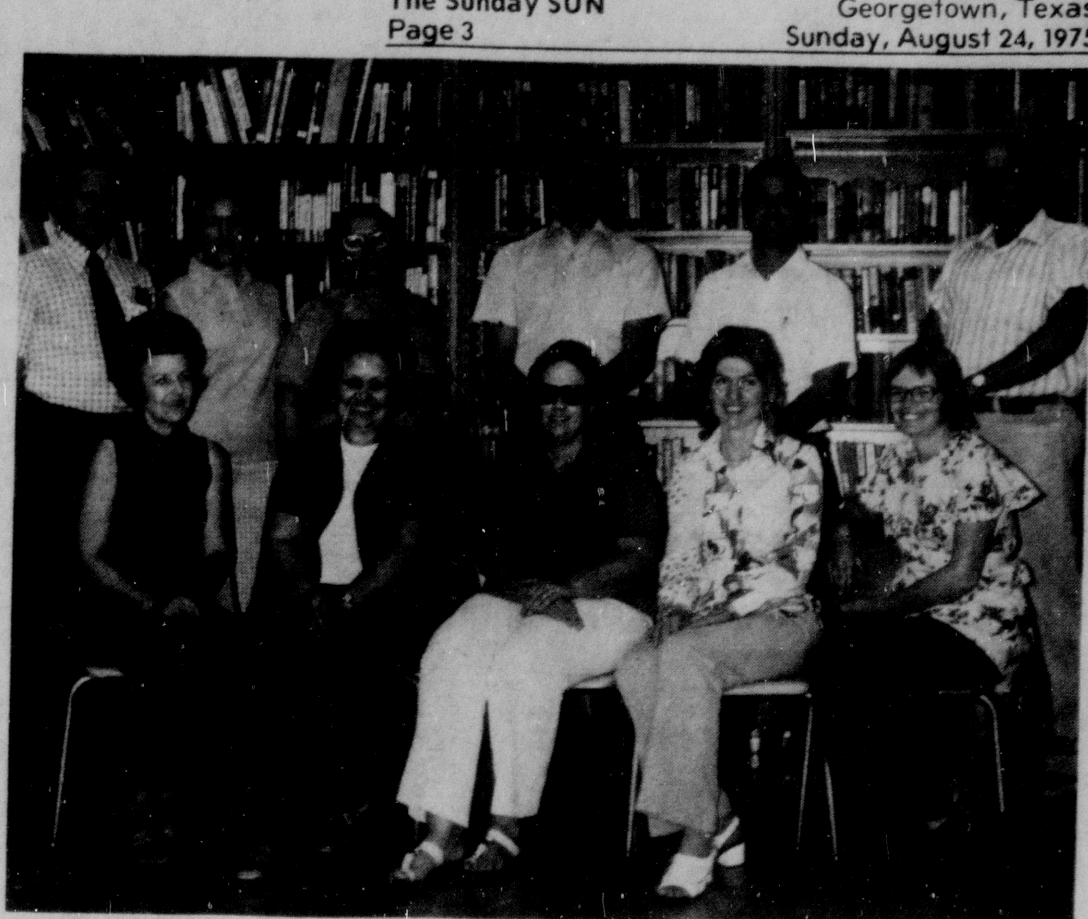

Mr. and Mrs. Al Alberts are spending their vacation in Bandera, at the Peaceful Valley Guests Ranch until after Labor Day. They anticipate catching some large catfish out of the Medina River, what time they are not riding horseback and shooting the rapids down the swift, beautiful river. They will be joined for Labor Day by the Melvin Sawyer family of Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller visited in Georgetown and Lampasas Monday.

Mrs. G. N. Townsend was in Belton on business Monday.

for the Days AHEAD

Even now trees are being felled, cords of wood cut, in preparation for cold winter days which are sure to come. Woodcutters are preparing for the days ahead, to bring comfort against the cold.

To prepare for our future "cold days," periods of sadness, times of bereavement, and times when we are tempest tossed, begin now to attend church regularly and let God, His Church, and His people help you to meet any situation in life.

"Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the father of mercies, and the God of all comfort; who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God." 2 Cor. 1:3, 4.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

(Editor's Note: Stuart Long is on vacation, and in his stead Scott Carpenter, of our Capitol Staff is giving his view from a long experience of investigative reporting in Austin.)

By Scott Carpenter
AUSTIN — Employees of the Texas House of Representatives use an intricate bookkeeping system to make sure they can announce that a member is not spending state money for his personal affairs. It is really doubtful that a member would do so, in light of the problems in past years of folks using postage stamps when they supposedly should not. But the entire idea is a source of great embarrassment to some Legislators, and well it should be, because when they spend $12.1 billion just to run the State, they don't want folks saying they're wheedling on the nickles and dimes.

Frugal members of the Legislature may enjoy the problems caused by the "overspenders" and it is still a source of pride to not have your name on that list.

Now there is a new rash of expense account stories, brought on by one of the members of the House. And it was for a good reason.

Rep. Pete Laney of Hale Center, chairman of the House Administration Committee, asked for an attorney general's opinion on whether overspending by House members constituted a criminal violation of the law.

Attorney General John L. Hill replied that if the overspending was intentional, it would constitute official misconduct, subjecting the representative to prosecution with a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

The announcement that there was no House member with a red ink expense account did not mean that no House member had spent more than the allocation.

Basically, three procedures were used for those who had spent more than their monthly allocation in one month. The stamp slush fund helped some of the accounts out of the red. Under the system used by the House, when a legislator does not spend all of his monthly funds, the remainder goes into a special postage reserve account, which can total as much as $3,000. Should a member spend more than his regular allocation in one month, all postage charges to his account are shifted to the reserve account, thereby reducing the drain on his regular allocation.

For representatives who have been in the House more than one term, there is another special account, a continuing reserve account. At the end of 1974, House members who had positive balances in their expense accounts were allowed to carry that over to 1975 as a special reserve account for them, up to a maximum $3,000 carryover.

That allows the older members of the House to run over their expense accounts more than their postage spending and still remain in the black.

The third system is the personal check. Any legislator who spends more than his allocation, and doesn't get into the black in either of the other two ways can simply write a personal check to the State and his

Community Theater enters into new year

Fall heralds the beginning of many things; the new fiscal year for some governments and companies, the school year, football season and the Georgetown Area Community Theater's new season.

The theater's newly elected officers — Gin Dodson, president; Anne Marie Doering, treasurer, and the Board — Wendell Osborn, Evelyn Shell, Dora Davis, Bill Holmans, Gene Hargett, Tony Kegel and Francis Springer — and Kathy Holmans, secretary are busy getting things in shape.

First item of business is the Patron Membership Drive. What is a patron? A patron is someone who gives and gets. Gives $25 to the theater and gets personal satisfaction out of helping this community project flourish and two tickets to each of the four scheduled productions. What are the productions? A mystery, a comedy (ever had Suds in your Eyes?), a children's production and a melodrama.

Is it worth it? Ask anyone who saw last year's productions. The frustrations gotten rid of by hissing and booing the villain in the melodrama was worth the whole membership, they all agreed.

Letters will be going out within the next two weeks. Those who fit the patron description but don't get a letter, are urged to contact a theater member or drop a line to P.O. Box 567, Georgetown.

Notice to all current members — the "Super Cast Party" is scheduled for 6:30 p.m., September 6 at the theater. It's a costume affair, so start thinking. The ballots and reservation requests will be in the mail this week.

JARRELL NEWS

RUTH CARSON 746-2791

We ended the news on Thursday with: you asked for it and here it is — the schedule for the Big Blue Jarrell Cougars! — the question, where was it? what happened? — It must have gotten lost, but ah ha, I found it at the top of page six, section 1 of the Thursday Sun; we trust you still have your Sun, quick, cut out the Football Schedule so you will know when those Cougars will be playing and plan to attend the games.

The fellas and girls of the Jarrell Community enjoyed their first "School Holidays" on Thursday and Friday for this school year.

Congratulations to the Jerry Valentas, they have a new granddaughter.

Best wishes to Runelle Baker

and Beulah Gilbreath in their new adventures. I will miss them at the Sun office.

As I read the comments on taxes, in the Passing Glance last week, this thought crossed my mind—I pass it on to you: The wages of sin are the only wages not subject to income tax.

Remember to VOTE to keep the doors of your church open by attending the services this Sunday.

Have a Happy Lord's Day — and let us hear from you.

Snakebites seldom kill

Snakebites very seldom kill. Some 45,000 persons are bitten by snakes each year in the United States, says the Texas Medical Association.

Of the 45,000 bites, some 8,000 are by venomous snakes. Despite these many bites by venomous snakes, deaths from snake venom poisoning have not exceeded 12 per year in the past five years.

In some 20 percent of the bites of venomous snakes, no venom is actually injected.

While there are more than 3,000 species of snakes, only 300 or so are sufficiently poisonous to be of danger to man. In the United States, there are some 120 species of snakes, about 20 of which are venomous. These latter include rattlesnakes, cottonmouth water moccasins, copperheads and coral snakes.

Injection of antivenin as soon as possible after the bite is highly important in treatment.

Leander man joins Air Force

William G. McHugh of Leander enlisted in the U. S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program recently, according to TSGT Lelmond Plemons, U. S. Air Force Recruiter in Austin.

McHugh, a 1974 graduate of Round Rock High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the U. S. Air Force on 17, Nov. 75.

Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week course at the Basic Military Training School, Lackland AFB, Texas, he will receive training in the Electronics Field.

McHugh will be earning credits toward a Career Education Certificate through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

account will not be in the red. Since the revelations of abuses in the use of expense accounts in the late 1960s and early '70s, several systems have been attempted to ensure that the accounts are used properly.

Former House Speaker Price Daniels Administration attempted to severely limit accumulations of funding for postage. That raised complaints from legislators, who contended that they just could get enough in their postage accounts to fund mass mailings to the residents of their districts.

The system developed by Speaker Bill Clayton was a modification of the Daniel system, allowing the accumulation and some carry over provisions. However, it was nothing like the system as operated under House Speaker Gus Mutscher, when several legislators had expense accounts with positive balances totaling tens of thousands of dollars.

Round Rock School District to pay $2000 damages

Tuttle joins U.S. Air Force

James J. Tuttle of Jarrell enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program recently, according to TSgt Ledom Plemons, U.S. Air Force Recruiter in Austin. James, a 1975 graduate of Jarrell High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the U.S. Air Force on Oct. 7. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week course at the Basic Military Training School, Lackland AFB, Texas, he will receive training in the Electronics.

James will be earning credits toward a Career Education Certificate through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

Round Rock School Board agreed to pay $2000 to a 16-year-old boy for court costs and damages stemming from a bout with the boy's lawyer in federal court last February in which U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts of Austin ruled the Round Rock school drug abuse policy unconstitutional.

The board decided to let the federal court ruling that reinstated sophomore J. Forrest Taylor remain uncontested. Taylor was expelled from Round Rock High School "for drug abuse violations," Roberts ordered the school district to reinstate Taylor for the remainder of the school year.

"WE DECIDED that pursuing the case could mean spending untold amounts. Therefore we will not contest the ruling," said James Carothers, school board members. Round Rock School Attorney

J. C. Hinesley, in a letter to the board, advised this action. He said, "I believe that in the long run it will be in the interest, at least financially, of the school district to settle the litigation on this basis."

Round Rock district and the school system by Mr. and Mrs. J. Forrest Taylor Jr., parents of the high school student. According to testimony, Taylor and another student were found January 24, smoking a marijuana cigarette by Department of Public Safety Patrolman

Richard Looby behind Round Rock West during the school day. No arrest was made. This year, a major change has been made in suspension policies by the district, whether for violation of drug or other policies or for other reasons. No longer will one-day, three-day or "rest of the semester" expulsions be administered. "So often, these are treated more like vacations than punishment," Supt. Noel Grisham said.

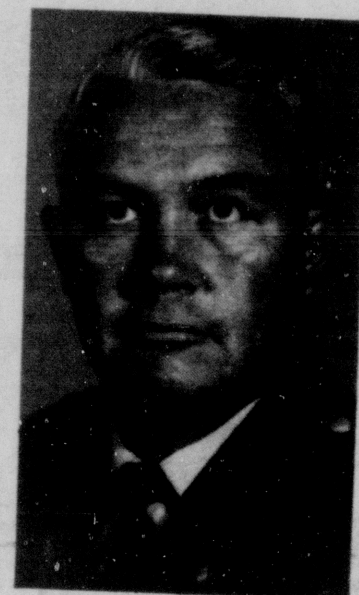

"Our real obligation and interest is not punishment in the first place. It is advancing the educational and social well being of the student."

TO MEET THESE, Round Rock has initiated an "on-campus suspension program" in which students will no longer be sent home. Instead, they will be assigned to a Special Assignments Class (SAC) which will be administered for both high school and middle school by Daniel Baker.

These students will be put into a rigidly structured routine, segregated from other students. Eventually the program will be housed in Northside, after Voight School opens and Northside is no longer used as an elementary campus.

For the duration of their suspension, the students will remain in SAC, then return to regular classes.

"We genuinely expect to be able to assist them academically while they are in SAC, but we also expect it to be unpleasant enough that they will not want to return," Grisham said.

MARVIN E. LACKEY
Army Lieutenant Colonel Marvin E. Lackey, son of Mrs. Thelma Lackey, 1504 Maple St. was graduated from the non-resident course at the Army War College here.

Officer students complete the two-year nonresident portion on off-duty time and convene at the War College for two short periods during the course. The curriculum is designed to prepare senior officers of all the services for top level command and staff positions in the armed forces throughout the world.

Col. Lackey is a logistics officer with the U.S. Army Element, Headquarters, Atlantic Command, Langley Air Force Base, Va.

Business Women's League will meet Tuesday, August 26 at 7 p.m. at Stonehaven Center.

Rosson gets U.H. degree

Richard S. Rosson of Georgetown was one of 1500 students, who were candidates for degrees or diplomas awarded by the University of Houston in summer commencement ceremonies Saturday, August 16. He received his B.A. in Marketing.

Willard E. Walbridge, chairman of the board, Houston Chamber of Commerce, delivered the commencement address. Walbridge is also senior vice president of Capital Cities Communications, Inc., the parent company of KTRK-TV, Channel 13, in Houston.

The exercise was held in Hofheinz Pavilion on the UH Central Campus and was televised to conclusion by KUHT-TV (Channel 8), the UH public broadcast facility.

UH President Philip G. Hoffman conferred degrees and diplomas, and candidates for graduation were presented by Dr. Roger Singleton, acting vice president and dean of faculties at UH. Singleton also introduced honor graduates.

Georgetown board adopts $29,151 athletic budget

Athletic programs cost the Georgetown School District approximately $4500 above gate receipts during the 1974-75 school year, Business Manager Jerry Graham said Thursday.

The school board adopted Monday night a $29,151 athletic budget, the same as last year's. Revenues from gate receipts were $21,000 last year while actual expenditures, excluding salaries for coaches and other athletic personnel, were $27,500.

Football drew the largest share of the budget with $18,225 allotted to that sport. Girls and boys basketball will receive a total of $4,600.

Other sports include:

- Baseball $1,600
- Tennis & Golf $1,225
- Track $1,950
- Volleyball $1,550

Commissioners to consider subdivision regulations

Williamson County Commissioners will consider the adoption of new subdivision regulations at Monday's court meeting. Held in the Auditor's Office, first floor of the courthouse, the meeting begins at 10 a. m.

Twenty other items are listed on the lengthy agenda.

A contract for $80,761 emergency job funds from the Federal CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program will be considered. The contract for the emergency jobs is between the county and the Federal government.

Texas A&M mothers to meet

The first meeting of the Executive Board of the Federation of Texas A&M University Mothers' Clubs for 1975-76 will be held on Saturday, August 30, 1975, at the Memorial Student Center on the Texas A&M University campus.

Federation officers will be hostesses at a Coffee from 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. in the Birch Room (Room 205). The Board Meeting will follow in the Assembly Room at 9:30 a. m. with Mrs. Fred L. May, Jr. of San Antonio, Texas, Federation President, presiding. All Club

Presidents, District Chairmen, and Executive Board Members are urged to attend.

Dr. Jack Williams, President of Texas A&M University, will address the group. Heads of various departments on campus will present activities and needs of their respective departments. Club projects for the coming year, along with other business, will be discussed and adopted at this time.

Mrs. Calvin Rinn is president of the Williamson County A&M Mother's Club.

Jaycee sponsor carnival

The carnival came to Georgetown this week through the efforts of the Georgetown Jaycees.

With nightly performances in San Gabriel Park, the group tried to raise money for the planting of trees at the new high school. According to David Skinner, head of the local group, one of the best money makers was the Jaycee dunking booth which featured local beauties.

A special performance was given by 33 children from Mary Bailey Day Care Friday afternoon. The Tam-Lyn amusements opened all rides to the children, gave each a candied apple or cotton candy and coke, and a necklace engraved with their individual names.

According to Skinner, "The kids really had a blast, and we hope we can sponsor this again."

Faubion elementary to be dedicated Sunday

Ada Mae Faubion Elementary school will be dedicated and opened to public viewing from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. Sunday.

The Leander school district's new open-concept facility is located about one and a quarter miles south of Cedar Park on County Road 182, also known as Buttercup Road.

Guest of honor will be Mrs. Ada Mae Faubion, Leander teacher for 30 years, now retired, for whom the school is named.

Other special guests include Faubion principal Travis Henry, Leander elementary principal Julia Young, and Leander High principal Paul Jones.

All three are beginning their first year with the Leander school district.

Alice Brown, Leander director of instruction, and PTA member Emily Barnes are in charge of the dedication and open house, and Rev. Kenneth Baker of New Hope Baptist Church will also participate in the ceremonies.

Near-capacity enrollment of 450 is expected during 1975-76 for the new school, which is designed to accommodate 500 children in kindergarten through sixth grade.

Faubion, an "open" school, has no permanent interior walls. Enclosed rooms are provided for kindergarten classes and art class, and the science laboratory. All other classes, however, will be held within view and earshot of each other.

The school will serve communities along State Highway 183, including Shenandoah, Volente, Trails End, Jonestown, Cedar Park, and Mansfield Dam.

Board adopts free lunch scale

Georgetown school cafeterias will serve free lunches to children who are eligible under annual family income guidelines set by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Milton Denham, administrator.

Applications for the program will be sent home with students on the first day of classes, Denham said. Children from families who think they qualify under the guidelines, will be given free lunches until the applications are processed, Denham explained. Costs will have to be repaid, if the family does not qualify.

FREE LUNCH ELIGIBILITY INCOME SCALE

★ Community Development

Federal regulations for obtaining Community Development funds are complex and a flow chart showing the required steps for funding reads like instructions on a Monopoly game board.

Though the Council will have the final say over which projects the city says it wants to undertake, HUD requires evidence that public input has been sought in making plans for Community Development.

Sams, who is also city Building Inspector, says his department will give technical advice to citizens who bring forward their own proposals for use of the money.

Local citizens will also have a chance to study the city's plans and voice their opinions on the projects through the Citizens Advisory Commission and the public hearings.

Commission members include: C. A. Forbes, 1501 E. 15th; August Bosshard, 1801 Paige;

Robert F. B. Morse, 509 Oak Crest; Everett Williams, 2008 Church; Bob Gaines, 712 Rucker; Johnnie Ochoa, 1505 Walnut; Edwin Schneider, 806 Country Club Road; Ethel Moore, 908 West 7th; Dick Cervena, 106 Ridgeoak; Richard Zavala, 4008 Granada; Oliver L. Forsvall, 1907 Paige; Don Scarbrough, 1318 E. University Ave.; William S. Lott, 1500 E. 15th; Mrs. Sam Brady, 1401 E. 18th; James H. Cole, 904 Country Club Road; J. D. Thomas Jr., 302 Walnut; Anna Aiken, Rt. 1; Blanche Hoyt, 1605 Gabriel View Dr.; Rev. Charles Davis, 505 W. University Ave.; Basil Phillips, 1807 E. 16th; Emmitt Mahlmann, 909 Pine; Tom Graves, 409 E. 16th; and Charles Saterfield, 901 W. 15th.

Forbes said citizens, Commission members, councilmen, and members of the Planning and Zoning Commission will be notified when a date for the next public hearing is set.

★ Reappraisal stuns

Leander district during the boom years of 1971, 1972, and part of 1974 were used to determine value, and asserted that sales now do not justify the final appraisal.

"If you use this method to tax and it succeeds," commented Garey, "you'll be the first rural school district in the state to have it go through and stick."

School officials blamed the seven year lapse between appraisals for the high valuation.

Garey also said the "farm and ranch exemption" is merely a deferment of taxes which will build up and fall due later.

"This is putting people in a corner," said Garey.

He added that "most of the people I represent are responsible and realize the value of good schools."

Garey said he had counseled against litigation, but did not omit the possibility of a lawsuit to alter the appraisal.

"I think there's a lot of unhappiness out there," he commented.

He said a solution to the problem might be a gradual escalation of the appraisal, to give property owners a chance to sell the land or pay taxes they could afford over a period of time.

Answering Garey, Board Vice-President Dr. Loyd Hampton said, "That's a very graphic description of the problems, Mr. Garey. But we might assign different emphases to other aspects of the problem."

"This board," continued Hampton, "feels responsible first of all to the school and to the taxpayers around the district. But the dilemma doesn't originate with the board. Short of allowing everyone to say what they will pay, we can't make everyone happy."

Leander's Tax Equalization Board will meet August 26-29 to hear the property owners' grievances.

Board members include Robert Stokes, Charles Craven, Cherry Enderlin, and alternate Fred Romberg.
